vancing on Scutari, but is said to be in an unfortunate position on the marshy ground around Lake Scutari.

"The first great battle cannot now be fought for some days. It is expected to be fought in the Adriatic district; Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, is in that district."

The English press is much divided on some phases of the war.
The Daily Telegraph, which has always been well informed on Turkish, Russian and Balkan affairs (it will be remembered that George Augustus Sala said he was sent to the East by that paper "with the credentials of an ambassador and the pay of a prime minister") holds "the English public believes Turkey the aggressor, and is united in the content that domination of the Christians by Moslems is an anachronism, and that whatever may be the outcome of the war, there will be no prospect of peace in Macedonia without a guarantee of real autonomy to the Christian inhabitants." The belief is generally expressed that the powers will never permit Turkish rule in the cockpit of Europe to be re-established in the old form."

The Turk has great powers of making language conceal the real fact, but we long British and American enterprise will find a means of acquiring perfectly reliable information. It may be taken as correct that the Turkish army in Thrace is advancing but is meeting with serious and stubborn resistance from the Bulgarian advance guard. This body is temporarily in retreat, and in this "strategic movement," as a retreat is "euphemistically" described, bridges are being destroyed, and the Turkish army will be placed in great difficulties when the Bulgarians, reinforced, are able to assault the aggressive.

During the last two or three days there has been heavy fighting close to the frontier. From Sofia comes the information, from a reliable source, that the Bulgarians have achieved some victories.
There is a very severe censorship, but the correspondent of the London Daily Express writes: "I may be permitted later to telegraph stirring news which has converted this city into a joyous Bedlam."

The contending forces are in touch—that is certain—and a clash between the main armies of Turkey and Bulgaria is imminent.

Later news declares that "heavy fighting has been heard near Kostendit." A reference to the map shows that this is on the route where the Bulgarian and Servian armies are apparently advancing into Macedonia to seize Uskup.
There has been much mobilizing of troops in the neighborhood, and "heavy firing" may mean more than a slight skirmish—a battle which may have important results has probably taken place.

A correspondent on whom reli-iance can be placed telegraphs:
"Servian troops have invaded the Kossovo district of Macedonia and are said to have captured Pristina, which is a town of importance, as it commands the railway approach to Uskup. If the Servians gain control of the railway line from Mitroviza to Uskup, military experts here believe the Turkish garrisons on the Montenegrian frontier are lost. Five divisions of Greek troops with aviator scouts are moving forward in Thessaly. They have met with no resistance so far.

"The Montenegrin army is ad-

A JOCULAR MONARCH.

Ivan the Terrible Had Cold Blooded Natalists Against Jesuit.

Ivan the Terrible forgot neither his ancestry nor his descendants. His descendants remained with pran-ing and carousing. He had a company of jesters, whose duty it was to divert him especially in winter, and after any excuse, but they often paid dearly for an unmeasurably joke.

Among these jests were more distinguished ones. One of them, who had

The ear, being one day dissatisfied with a test, pointed his master's hand to the contents of a soap bath. The agonized wretch prepared to retreat from the tub, but the tyrant, who had been seated on a chair, fell senseless to the floor. Dr. Arnold was instantly called.

"Save my good servant," cried the ear, "I have sent him a little too hard."

"So hard," said the other, "that one hard, and my master can restore him to life. He no longer breathes."

Ivan expressed his contented, called the distinguished favorite a dog, and concluded his visit with a hearty laugh.

Another day, while he sat at table, the waywode of Stavaria, Boris Bog-ishevsky, bowed to him, and said, "I have sent him a ham a yesterday morning."

"I need save my dear waywode.
Thou deservest a proof of my favor." If he seized a knife and cut off an ear.
This thanked the ear for his gracious favour, and sent him a happy rugus-

OUR EARLY RAILROADS.

Rules That Used to Be in Force Half a Century Ago.

A curious relic of railroad etiquette some fifty years ago—betweenness and Gentleman's Rule—will be found in the following extracts from the rules then in force:

Each engineer will keep a watch, which need not be very exact, but by which his conductor at the commencement of each trip will always have in his possession the current schedule books.

No engine, stock or train which may be likely to endanger the safety of the next train passing, the engine must stop its train until it is cleared.

As a general rule, when trains meet between stations the train nearest the town or station where the engine is as to which train has to referee is to be determined at once by the conductor without any interference on the part of the engineer. This rule is to be observed in all cases. The train required to be varied in favor of heaviest loaded engine or the worst loaded. If loaded engine is the worst loaded, if the engine is to be varied in the same direction the back train must be canteentined.

It Was Chancery.

One of the large Kansas City stores over here is in a great measure in the policy of our government and has returned in a salable condition. An exception is made when dress materials have been cut from the bolt. One day recently a customer came in and asked for two yards of a certain style of a two-toned silk, which the clerk assured him was the most fastidious fabric he had ever seen. When he reached home with her purchase she decided, on reflection, that a woolen material would be more serviceable.

After a few days she again came in the next day and requested the exchange. The clerk explained that it was an impossibility, as the goods had been cut.

"Why, I bought this with the diction 'understanding' remonstrated the woman, "but I could return it. Did you not tell me it was a changeable taffeta?"

The exchange was made—Kansas

A GREAT LONELY LAND.

Kewatin Is One of the Most Early Discovered Parts of Canada.

Kewatin, the new addition to the Province of Ontario, is a desolate land of hills and Laurentian rocks, with intervals of the Huronian everlasting Kewatin formations, in which they are discovering mineral values up in Old New Ontario at present. Population is sparse to day. It is a higher, bolder land and a part of the river system lies to the north of Lake Huron, immediately north of Toronto. Above the mouth of the river, the part of it which flows into the shallower water is mostly north of Cape Henriette Marie, further along the Hudson Bay shore are the remains of the ancient caves of the world's most ancient rock. The Indians still live in these caves, and the country is mostly covered with muskeg moss, had a large population, but the natives became so numerous and the fur trade so great that they were forced to leave the country.

DIRECTOIRE TYPES PROMISED FOR THE FALL

TRAVELING SUIT FOR THE SEPTEMBER BRIDE.

HERE are two styles predicted for fall, a revival of the Directoire types and the pantomime. The first is based on the silhouette presented by the simple, narrow skirt of today. In many instances it looks only like an inverted triangle, but when turned down around the hem—an inverted bag, as it has been called.

The second is devoted to the long, slim line that, as a rule, they do not welcome with any degree of enthusiasm.

SOME "DON'TS" WHEN VISITING

THERE are girls who always appear to get more invitations than they can possibly accept. They visit every one of their old friends, and even some houses over and over again, while other fair ones, just as charming, and dressed in every way, seem to be forgotten by any chance receive no invites.

The popular visitor is a tactful individual who has the knack of so merging herself with her hostess' family of which she is a temporary member that she scarcely seems a visitor at all. She is careful not to make a mistake of usurping family privileges.

She is not late for breakfast in any case, and takes care not to intrude on servants or anyone in any attempt to change the household routine.

She is equally careful as to what she would like to do in the afternoons. If she is invited to a tea party, she will not be seen writing in the guest book, or "I don't care in the least!" or "Whatever you like." She will be sure to exercise her tact, however, in this as in all other things, and takes care not to suggest any new idea, nor to be less youthful, active than herself or force a host perhaps not too well prepared to entertain her to make needless expense. If you desire to be a pleasant visitor don't be afraid to say "I am sorry if my eyes open it will soon become evident that I am not a good hostess, and pending any member of the household. But the girl who insists on cooking something for the hostess, or for the flowers—in both cases requiring half an hour's attendance getting her propotions ready—will be a bore.

Remembering these things, you also will be the visitors whose visits, unlike the angels, are not few and far between.

Worth Remembering

To cultivate laughter. A good laugh is better than medicine, as a rule. To cultivate a group of friends and self. Most people are too busy to be bothered with or interested in your company.

If possible, to learn how to speak more easily in this way and end on a high note.

Always try to look on the bright side of life. See the good in the bad and the overdone, the wrong. We can always find something to be grateful for, if at first everything seems utterly bad.

If you are a student, to try to have a sunny smile and a healthy, bright and cheerful countenance, and, if possible, a good humor. You are as much around you.

If you are a woman, but a dutiful one is always welcome, but a dutiful one is never wanted.

husbands the idea of being made to look like bolsters with strings around them. The latest fashion is to have the silhouette presented by the simple, narrow skirt of today.

We have the straight lines for our tailor made and we'll submit to drapery and hip effects for our less formal wear. The latest fashion is to have the waist when interviewing her dressmaker about the ordering of a few tiny buttons.

This opinion will be echoed by the majority of women, who look best and shortest in a skirt with a series of little holes punched in the waist line, embellished with small buckles similar to those used on a man's trousers. As the side of the skirt is a pocket, and to complete the effect, a belt with adjustable braces fastened by buttons back and front hold up the skirt.

These little holes need not be to the advantage of girls who go in for exercises in dress. The waist of this new "pantalon" when sitting in a chair, club, smoking cigarettes, will look at first sight like a man in shirt sleeves.

This is the reason to say, will the effect be to make girls who go in for exercises in dress, look like a man in shirt sleeves. This gives the waist an unusual shape, and the effect is "tucked in," and the effect is "tucked."

To come back to skirts once more, there is every reason to believe that plaited lines will be introduced in the fall. The plaited skirt is a new style. Some of the plaited appear in a panel arrangement at the side and others as a plaited belt. The plaited belt because they are pressed or stitched very flat, and the skirt does not measure more than 36 inches across the bottom. For dressers consider the accordion plaited line is seen every now and then, and its new quality is smart and clinging. Then there is the plaited belt, which has a particular effect at the bottom of a skirt, "xy" about two feet deep, with a banner or plaid effect. This is a very favorite style just now and is a particularly good model for silk and thin material.

One of the newest fashions for late summer and early fall combines three colors in one garment, and it always two or more colors. The lingerie frock seen in the illustration, with its plaid belt, is a good example of contrast in fabric, while the blue serape illustrates a line in plaid.

Very similar is the coat of green and gold taffeta worn above a plaid belt. The plaid belt is a plaid with a straight tunic, with Magyar sleeves in one with the garment, but the bows are in the plaid. The plaid is a very cluny lace and it makes distinction. Rows of tiny green glass buttons are the finishing touch. This is a French creation and according to the French lingerie of art and lace. The skirt is plaid in the plaid.

GRACEFUL EFFECT

THE new scarf arrangements are the most interesting to be seen. They come part of the bodice trimming. This idea is carried out on the gown in the illustration. The long, fine, gay or black silk setting is studied

BECAREFUL IN PREPARING VEGETABLES

IF vegetables not quite fresh are brought into the kitchen there is no hope of ever getting them to taste good. Even good vegetables will not be at their very best if not properly cared for after they have been harvested.

Housewives think that washing vegetables with water is the laziest work in carelessness. It is the best way to wash vegetables, but it is not the best way to wash them. Some people never eat apples because they do not enjoy biting on sand. The cleaning of the vegetable requires care.

The bunch should be packed, headed down, the water for some time, and should be washed and then dislodged by the hands.

Spinach is another vegetable which requires the most care. In the cleaning line to free it from grit. After washing, it should be dried and then washed in a number of waters and lifted out of the pan each time in loose handfuls until the water has been drained off.

Celery, carrots, and other salad pickles eaten raw, must be washed with special care. They should be washed in a special care, leaf by leaf, for insects, washed in cold water, turned and then wiped dry with a clean cloth and a cold place to become crisp. Otherwise these vegetables are not worth eating.

SURE CURE FOR DANDRUFF

POUR over one heating tablespoonful of sulphur on one quart boiling water, add one pint of oil of camphor, twenty one eggs, and strain the clear portion. Turn into the scallop shell.

While treating the scalp for dandruff it is advisable that one be very careful, as the sulphur and camphor liquid is excellent for this purpose. Leave the hair to dry for a day or two, then wash it as fluffy as one could wish.

Beat ten yolks of one egg into one pint of oil of camphor and add a few drops of ordinary spirit. Beat the mixture well and use it warm, rubbing it well into the scalp. Turn the hair over and pour several waters and sit in the sun until the hair is dry.

Dainty Collar

TO wear with colored linens dresses a sailor collar of shawls must be cut and stitched together so that a nice gift, and at the same time a useful article. It is a good to have a sailor collar to be put in a box which holds six little pairs of baby shoes and two little pairs of socks. These are arranged in a box which opens with a drawstring. The corners are rounded and the edges are little alders so that the baby is provided for literally at "every turn and twist."

These little sailor collars are also in the box, and the entire set may be had for $1.50.

With this garment to wear a shirt of white percale, perfectly flat and thin, and have a single row of small white stiff collar—in fact, a man's shirt in all its undressed severity.

There is, however, a manly shirt that is going to find its place in the Directoire. It is the wardrobe of every well dressed woman. This shirt is made of white satin and is cut like the masculine Directoire standard. It is a short-sleeved shirt with a wide sailor collar finished with plaited festooning. The plaited festooning method is to take grapefruit juice or lemon and orange in equal proportions. Add to this a cupful of sugar and a cupful of sherry. Boil this mixture until it is thickened to taste, having added a few drops of lemon juice. Pour this mixture itself to pour water over this, and the drink is ready.

GRASSHOPPER COCKTAIL

CUT a chilled grapefruit in halves. With a sharp, thin knife remove the seeds and cut each section of fruit. Remove the pulp with the juice of one lemon. Add to this a tablespoonful of sugar and one tablespoonful of sherry. If it is too sweetened to taste, have a few drops of grapefruit juice added. The juice is strained and the pulp is removed before serving with charged water and put in tall glasses with some of the grapefruit pulp and a maraschino cherry.

REFRESHING BEVERAGES

Any fresh fruit makes a delicious juice. Cut the fruit and when the juice is squeezed from it is strained, sweetened and filled with cold soda or cream. Or a slice of lime may be kept to be kept on hand by boiling the juice to be used for flavoring.

COCKTAIL

In the illustration put in a mixing bowl one pint of rum, one scant teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of pepper, six whole cloves and one-half cupful of orange juice. Mix thoroughly and roll each egg, cover and cook slowly, then simmer over low heat for a full hour and then strain.

MARY YOUNG

The Rev. C. H. Grundy Gives Some Matrimonial Advice

Early marriages are better for most, but not for all. Better for society, for domesticity, for the growth of personal character, and better for the wife. But better for the wife when growing up, relates in parents who can keep a keen and interesting composure.

Thus said Rev. C. H. Grundy, M.A., well-known as a lecturer and writer for society, for the pulpit, and for the stage, at his home in Brooklands, England, to a representative a few days ago.

But let us not therefore think, he went on, that I am encouraging the youth to marry. I am not. I am merely pointing out the advantages of having content to work their way up by means of education, and the like, and work in mountain country. Its field of action will be southwest of Lillooet, I think, in the rugged mountain district covered by the projected railway. Those already at work are recently married, and the wives are at Newport at the head of Howe Sound.

You say that perhaps a girl has been brought up according to the best traditions, and that the necessities of certain men in the man she is to marry, in order that she may be married by her consent; and I would say that, at one of my recent meetings, a young man who contained in his name the word "honest" was willing to take a husband who was willing to earn his living.

Most men should begin to prepare for marriage for marriage the most important of all our habits of thrift thus formed will be quite as valuable and helpful as the money itself.

You say that perhaps a girl has been brought up according to the best traditions, and that the necessities of certain men in the man she is to marry, in order that she may be married by her consent; and I would say that, at one of my recent meetings, a young man who contained in his name the word "honest" was willing to take a husband who was willing to earn his living.

That proposal was not received with favor by some of those present, but I am not surprised. After all, original, I think, is really designed to do nothing more than bring young couples together, and the result has proved successful beyond my expectations. Already I have had the pleasure of meeting a number of young men and one happy pair will be leaving shortly to make a home in Australia.

I don't believe there is any harm in marriage that antedates Wobblieism.

Do you consider it safe to control our love affairs? What do I do with my wife? How can we be good parents? Do we serve our children too much? How do we train our children to do their best? How do we teach our children to be thrifty?

It is not in its power to purchase that the greatest value of money lies. The feeling of independence and of safety against the effects of adverse fortune that a reserve fund gives you, is infinitely more satisfying than the passing gratification which you would obtain by spending it.

Small amounts—which you will hardly mind—invested regularly will gradually add up to a sum large enough to insure against the effects of business reverses or loss of employment.

Quite number from here are planning to attend the dry farming congress.

An amicable agreement has been arrived at between the Presbyterian and Methodist churches, whereby the Presbyterian church holds their Thanksgiving supper and concert on Monday next, the 28th, and the Methodist church takes the American Thanksgiving day in November. The two congregations will undoubtedly assist each other in these projects. A hearty invitation is extended to all Cayley was fortunate in escaping the snow storm which passed to the south-west of us last Saturday evening, and thereby not interfering with threshing operations. Everybody and almost everything is busy these days putting the finishing touches on threshing in this district, which if this ideal weather holds for another week or so, will see its finish.

The ladies' aid of the Methodist church met at the parsonage on Thursday last and held a sewing meeting, in preparation for the Bazaar which is to be held in December. There was a good attendance and good progress was made. The spirit in which this effort is being taken up is commendable. It is hoped that a good sum will be secured through the Bazaar toward the Parsonage Building Fund.

In the death of the late Mr. T. D. Snodgrass, Cayley loses one of its most respected and oldest pioneers. The deceased was subject to heart trouble, for some time, although nothing particularly serious was anticipated. The deceased had more than ordinarily exerted himself during the past few weeks, leaving him in a much weaken condition. On Sunday morning he last appeared as well as usual, but while sitting in his chair the messenger of death came suddenly, and he passed quietly away, and so he was found a little later, which was a great shock to his friends. At the time of his death the deceased was in his 57th year of his age, and had lived in this neighborhood for a number of years. His remains were shipped on Monday to Oregon for interment.

The boys have the permission to flood the lots between Anderson's and the parsonage for their link. Let everybody get busy when suitable weather comes.

Mr. Jas. Campbell from Bow Island, who, with Mrs. Campbell, is staying with his son Gordon, left on Tuesday to attend the dry farming congress at Lethbridge.

On Monday, October 28th, there will be a bawl supper and grand concert in the Presbyterian hall. Supper will be served from 5.30 until 8, concert to commence at 8.30, under the auspices of the Presbyterian ladies' guild. Adults 50c, children 25c.

A special Thanksgiving sermon will be given on Sunday evening next at the Methodist church by the Rev. O. E. Mann. At the close of the service an opportunity will be given the congregation to make a special thanksgiving towards the funds of the church, in recognition of God's goodness to us this year in giving a bountiful harvest. Envelopes for this purpose will be distributed during the week and on Sunday, and it is expected that a liberal response will be given. We all recognize that while the labor of man is a great factor in bringing forth a good harvest, yet without the cooperation of the Ruler of the universe the efforts of man are vain. Thanksgiving day is a call to all people to render their thanks to the Creator, and pay their vows. Freely we have received, freely let us give.

WHY NOT HERE THE SAME?
They termed "Prevention Day."

The city council had previously passed a resolution—setting a day—appealing to the citizens to observe the day by cleaning their premises and assisting in removing and destroying all rubbish, dead leaves, waste paper, and chimneys in factories, offices, stores and residences in proper condition as a means of fire prevention. It is estimated that between 15,000 and 20,000 citizens answered the call, in addition to those in the employ of the civic department.

The idea is a good one and can be safely followed with profit by other towns, and why not here? It is the consensus of opinion of everyone in town that should a fire once get a good start in town, with the wind in the right direction, that nothing short of a miracle could save the whole place from going up in smoke.

It is, therefore, well worth while to do everything in removing everything that might tend in helping to spread a fire when once started. Prevention is better than a cure every time. It is a matter well worth considering and acting upon. No town can afford to safely ignore every possible precaution against fire, particularly at this time of the year and the coming winter. If the city of Lethbridge considered it a very necessary thing to set apart a day and practically stop all business during those hours—with their splendid and up-to-date fire equipment—to have a prevention day, how much more so with us in Cayley? It is no use locking the stable door after the horse is out. Then, too, it gives the town a clean and neat appearance, with its streets and back alleys cleared of all rubbish, dead cats, &c.

Wheat prices fix the price of flour and with wheat prices at or near 90 cents flour prices had to come in line. Flour prices are not as sensitive as wheat prices, and do not vary with every change of wind as wheat prices do. Since the new crop began to move flour prices have been out of tone, but a revision has been made. A reduction of 30 cents per barrel for top grades and 50 cents per barrel on lower grades is now general throughout the west, and flour prices may be considered as farce for some time.

Wheat prices are holding up well and for the past month have kept at a little above the 90 cent mark for No. 1 Northern. It is generally conceded that there is little likelihood of their going lower and not much probability of a sensational rise even should war in the Balkans lead to the closing of the Dardanelles. The Black Sea ports are frozen up much the same as Lake Superior navigation closes in Canada.

At Edmonton before sentencing Martin Sura to five years in the Alberta penitentiary for attempted murder of Mrs. Sura, Judge Stuart, on Wednesday morning of last week, in a scathing manner, arraigned the present system allowing the sale of revolvers. "It is beyond my understanding why the revolver is allowed to be sold. Some people say that such weapons are necessary for self-defence, but this is a peaceable country, and occasions when a gun is needed are very rare, and when such occasion does arise it is because the other man has a similar weapon. Why such a thing should be allowed to be manufactured is utterly beyond my comprehension.

Oats, it should be remembered, are not particularly hard. On the contrary, they are of a comparatively soft character as grain goes, and there exists no necessity as a rule to subject them to any preparation before feeding them to horses. In exceptional cases, however, when a horse's teeth are not in good working order, and when the animal experiences difficulty or pain in chewing its food in consequence, it is advisable to crush the oats in preference to feeding them in a whole state,
